MISSION SECTION

Title 24 Non-Res Paperwork for Lighting

Monday Sept. 22, 2014; 6:00 -7:15 pm RSVP

Antioch University Santa Barbara, Multipurpose Room,
602 Anacapa Street; Santa Barbara, CA 93101

Program

Title 24 Non-Res Paperwork for Lighting

You have learned about the allowable watts for lighting and about the required controls for lighting, now learn about the required paperwork for lighting! Yes, Title 24 requires paperwork and lots of it. "Passing grades" are required by the designer, commissioning agent, manufacturers and vendors, installing contractor, and acceptance testing technician.

Rick Miller will present:

- Thirteen Certificates of Compliance that the design engineer needs to complete and place in the drawings in order to submit for a building permit.
- Five Certificates of Commissioning Review to be completed by the commissioning agent, also required for a building permit.
- Eleven Certificates of Installation that are required to be completed by the installing contractor or the construction foreman.
- Four Certificates of Acceptance that are required to be completed by a Certified Lighting Controls Acceptance Testing Technician.

Finally, the Building Inspector is required to verify that all the Certificates are completed with a "passing grade."

Speaker

Rick Miller, PE, LEED AP, LC, CLCATT has designed lighting and power systems for architects, engineers and builders for nearly forty years. He frequently presents seminars on lighting controls at IEEE, IES, PG&E, SCE, and SMUD. He is the principal co-author of the California Lighting Controls Training Program (CALCTP) which trains electricians how to install lighting controls. Most recently, he became a Certified Lighting Controls Acceptance Testing Technician, a position created by the new Title 24 energy code. Mr. Miller is a licensed electrical engineer in California and several other states.
